Sam Jess, our new Moderator introduced our guest speaker, Rev. Dr. Danny Zacharais, Professor of New Testament at Acadia Divinity College.

Dr. Zacharais spoke about the Indigenous People of Canada. He grew up in Manitoba, came from a broken home, and didn't know about Indigenous people till he was in his teens. There are 1.4 million Indigenous people in Canada. A map of Canada showed where the Mikmaq First Nations people are living. In the Maritimes there were Peace and Friendship treaties.

Danny showed two videos. First was an interview with Rev. Michael Fredericks, a fellow who was adopted into an Indigenous family. He has now completed his MDiv degree and is pastor at Perth-Andover Baptist Church in NB near a First Nations Community. For many First Nations people, Christ and Church is not Good News. There is a need to build relationships with them. We are to be witnesses to all Nations, and show the love of Jesus.

Dr. Zacharais then spoke about the Culture of First Nations. Living on a reserve they don't own their land. An early Indian Act did not allow them to vote. Indigenous people are dealing with profound social issues. Sometimes they are moved away from where they live. There are barriers to health issues, and they don't have citizenship rights. There is high unemployment. Alcohol is seen as a weapon.

Then he showed a video with himself and Rev. Thelma McLeod, Pastor at Bethany Baptist Church, Aldershot, NS. Thelma has had a keen interest in Indigenous people. She read several books written by Indigenous people, and is now building relationships with some of them. God has brought them to her.

Danny's Challenge to us was: 1) Educate yourself about Indigenous people; 2) be vocal; 3) build relationships, pray for them.

Dr. Zacharais led in prayer and gave the blessing for the noon meal.

Sam Jess thanked the sneaker and presented him with a token of our appreciation.

At 1:00 p.m. Dan Green moved the meeting adjourned.

A delicious lunch of soups, rolls and apple crisp was served by the men and women of the host church.
